Market Continued Moving Upward During Short Session

BULLETIN

New York, Nov. 17.—(AP)—The "Hoover" bull market had a new mark to shoot at today—an all time record day's turnover of 6,714,000 shares, the first time in Stock Exchange history that the 6,000,000 mark has been reached. Every full trading day this week but one the market has gone over 5,000,000 shares. The five days' trading also set a new record for that period of time of 27,946,200 shares.

The strain on the human machine had led to recurring sentiment for a holiday for the stock market, similar to that which was ordered last spring in order to allow the bookkeeping staffs of brokerage houses to catch up with their work. Even the mechanical facilities have been swamped, the ticker yesterday being two hours and three minutes behind the market at the close. It is hoped that the high speed printers proposed and the leaving out of sales volume up to 500 share blocks will take care of that end, but the system is not expected to be put into effect before next fall.

New York, Nov. 17.—(AP)—The New York Stock Exchange was deluged with buying and selling orders today, but generally held the ground covered in yesterday's sweeping advance. While it yielded $1 to $4 a share along much of the new front, it extended its gains $1 to $10 in several places. The ticker was again lost in the confusion and had more than an hour's work to do when the market closed. Total sales were more than 3,000,000 shares, a new record for Saturday.

Montgomery Ward added $10 to yesterday's $20 spurt, closing at the record price of $424, in contrast to the year's low of $117. Radio jumped all around the $300 mark, touching it for the first time at the opening, falling as far back as $293, shooting up to $304, and closing at $301.50, a net gain of $4. Woolworth, National Dairy, Texas Gulp Sulphur, North American and International Harvester climbed $6 each while Johnson-McManville, American Smelting and Packard all pushed ahead about $1 to $4.

Chrysler, Allied Chemical, Cerro de Pasco, Greene Cananea, Wright, Curtiss and Westinghouse were among shares following back around $2 to $4 a share.

Opening Was Tame
The opening was not as wild as that in yesterday's record-breaking session of 6,714,400 shares, but there were several blocks of 5000 to 15,000 shares changing hands in the early trading.

The following table shows some of the large initial transactions:

15,000 Continental Motors 18½, up ½.
12,000 National Dairy Products, 123¾, up 2¼.
10,000 Anaconda Copper, 105½, up ½.
10,000 Columbia Graphophone, 70½, off 1.

Radio opened $2.50 a share higher at $300, advanced to a new high at $301 and then fell back to $293. New high records for the year also were established in the first hour of trading by American International Corporation, American Radiator, American & Foreign Power, Anaconda Copper, Bethlehem Steel, Chile Copper, Electric Storage Battery, Julius Kayser, Kolster Radio, May Department Stores, Miami Copper, National Bellas Hess, Northern Pacific, Packard Motors, Park & Tilford, Phillips Petroleum, Public Service of New Jersey, Shell Union Oil, Spiegel Mas Stern, United Electric Coal and Weber & Heilbroner.

Pullman, Victor Talking Machine, National Supply and Greene Cananea Copper fell back $2 to nearly $3 a share in the early trading.

Death Came to Man Sentenced to Joliet Prison

Chicago, Nov. 17.—(AP)—By telling Mrs. Margaret Schafer of Moline, Ill., that he needed money to tide him over until he inherited a $3,000,000 estate, Carl R. Bruce, 52, was able to mulct her of $10,000 before she became suspicious and caused his arrest last August.

Placed in the county jail on a charge of operating a confidence game, he was found to be suffering from tuberculosis and lay in the jail hospital until yesterday when he was carried into the Municipal Court of Judge John P. McGoorty.

Despite the advice of his attorney, Bruce entered a guilty plea.

"Do you know what the plea means?" asked Judge McGoorty.

"I do."

"One to ten years in Joliet is the best I can do," said the court.

"Yes, I know," responded Bruce. "But I'll not live to serve it out."

He was taken back to jail and preparations were made to take him to Joliet prison this afternoon. A jail guard went to tell Bruce to prepare for the trip. He found him dead on his cot in the hospital.

Third Big Banquet

BY GLENN BABB
Associated Press Correspondent
Kyoto, Japan, Nov. 17.—(AP)—The newly enthroned Emperor and Empress of Japan were hosts tonight to 2,000 guests in the third and last of the state banquets held to celebrate completion of the enthronement and the great thanksgiving. This feast, like the two which preceded it, was held in the magnificent hall erected in the Kyoto Palace enclosure especially for this purpose.

While the first of the three feasts was purely Japanese and the second purely occidental, this concluding function was an intentional mingling of east and west to illustrate the harmony in which these two parts of the world can live together.

An accidental menu was served during a musical program half of old Japan and half of modern Europe, and during intervals ancient classical Japanese dances were performed by court dancers.

She is said to have driven away in her own automobile. Judge Adams says he sees no reason to suspect foul play and believes his daughter will be heard from soon.

VESTRIS' FIRST OFFICER ADMITS NEGLECTED DUTY

Testified That He Did Not Examine Coal Ports Before Sailing

London, Nov. 17.—(AP)—The sinking of the Vestris is to come before the House of Commons.

Questions concerning the inquiry to be held by the Board of Trade in the disaster will be raised in Parliament by Commander Joseph M. Kenworthy, Laborite, probably on Monday.

Commander Kenworthy will ask the president of the Board of Trade whether he will state what form of inquiry is to be held, whether the lifeboats and arrangements for lowering them were adequate and whether he can give the probable cause of the sinking and loss of life.

Federal Building, New York, Nov. 17.—(AP)—The two senior surviving officers of the steamer Vestris pictured in halting terms from the witness stand today the nightmare hours that preceded the vessel's sinking off the Virginia Capes last Monday with the loss of more than 100 lives.

Both men, first Officer Frank Johnson and Chief Engineer James Adams, told of sea water pouring through doors in the side of the ship that could not be tightened, of loosened cargo crashing through wooden bulkheads, and the ship slowly turning over on its side like a wounded whale.

Yet Johnson said he did not know what made the ship sink and Adams told of reporting to the captain three hours before the Vestris foundered that he thought he could keep her afloat indefinitely.

Spoke In Whispers.
Both men spoke in voices scarcely above a whisper as they told of the sinking and the scenes when passengers and crew were taking to the lifeboats, which other witnesses have testified were improperly equipped and leaked through the seams.

After Johnson and Adams were excused the third session of the inquiry before United States Commissioner Francis O'Neill was adjourned until Tuesday.

Johnson, a wind-browed wisp of a man, who was promoted to be first officer of the steamer just before it sailed on its fatal voyage, testified that he had not inspected the coal ports although their condition was his responsibility.

Other survivors have charged that coal ports just above the water line were improperly closed and that water poured into the ship through them, at least contributing to the sinking with the loss of more than 100 lives.

Johnson, who took the stand today after Department of Justice agents had sought him for two days, said he had ordered the ship's carpenter to close the ports but had not himself looked to see if the work was properly done.

He said he never had examined the ports.

Evasion in testimony by the two surviving radio operators of the Vestris led to a vigorous effort by federal officials today to determine whether SOS calls were delayed by orders from the owners.

United States Attorney Tuttle asked steamship companies whose vessels assisted in the rescue work to submit at the inquiry which he is conducting copies of all messages exchanged with the Vestris. The Navy Department issued similar orders to call its stations, while the Radio Marine Corporation, which produced one message, continued a search of its files for further exchanges between the Vestris and its owners.

Call for Message
Under summons to testify at this afternoon's session were Chief Officer Johnson, chief ranking officer of the Vestris, and the commanding officer of the Voltare, another Lamport & Holt liner, which was bound north and if not delayed would have been near the Vestris at the time it sank. Radio messages between the Vestris and the Voltare were ordered produced.

Attorney Tuttle at yesterday's hearing questioned Charles Verchere, 18 year old third wireless operator of the Vestris, and James T. McDonald, second wireless man, in an attempt to learn what radio messages had been sent prior to the SOS, but was met with evasive answers.

'Maybe' Says Operator
Verchere, when pressed closely by Tuttle, finally said that "maybe" Captain Carey of the Vestris had sent a message to the line's agents Sunday night telling them the ship was in a bad condition.

Verchere also testified that when the Vestris was leaving the drydock in Brooklyn, where she had had her hull chipped and painted, she collided with another ship. He did not know whether any damage had been done to her.

McDonald denied knowledge of the collision.

CANCEL SUNDAY'S GAME.
The management of the Dixon Independents announced today this afternoon that Sunday's game with the Peru Bull Dogs had been cancelled.

The rain of the past 24 hours has rendered the independent field a lake and because of these conditions the contest was cancelled. The Bull Dogs will probably make their appearance on the local field later in the season.

HERRIN OFFICERS INDICTED FRIDAY LIQUOR CHARGE

Followed True Bills Against Alexander Co. Officials

BULLETIN

East St. Louis, Ill., Nov. 17.—(AP)—An indictment charging State's Attorney Arlie O. Boswell of Williamson County, Ill., with conspiracy to violate the Volstead Act has been returned by a federal grand jury, it was learned here today.

Art Newman, life term convict and Lieutenant in the notorious Birger gang of southern Illinois, was a chief witness against the prosecutor at the hearing, and he is understood to have charged that there was an agreement between Charley Birger, the recently executed gang leader, and Boswell, under which Birger's gang exercised control over the whiskey traffic in Williamson County.

Boswell issued a statement at Marion yesterday in which he said he expected to be indicted and ascribed the expected grand jury action to the testimony of political enemies.

Boswell goes out of office December 3, but hopes in the meantime to prosecute Newman and Freddie Wooten and Riley Simmons, also Birger gangsters, for the murders of Lory L. Price, State Highway Patrolman, and his wife. Newman is now serving a life term in Chester penitentiary for the murder of Mayor Joe Adams of West City, the crime for which Birger was executed.

Mayor Marshall McCormick of Herrin, who was among several indicted yesterday, today issued a statement attributing the charges to "political enemies."

East St. Louis, Ill., Nov. 17.—(AP)—Characterized as members of a "protection ring," Mayor Marshall McCormick of Herrin, Ill.; his Chief of Police, John Stamm; his brother, Elmer McCormick, who is a Herrin policeman; and Alvin Mysker, water department superintendent, were indicted today.

The characterization came from Ralph F. Leseman, Assistant United States Attorney. He said the quartet collected regularly from liquor law violators in Williamson county and the monthly "shake down" brought thousands of dollars. They are accused of conspiracy to violate the Volstead Act.

Other indictments were returned by the federal grand jury in a partial report to District Judge Frederick L. Wham, yesterday. Names were suppressed, but other Williamson county officials are supposed to be involved.

Among the grand jury witnesses were Art Newman, Birger gangster, who is now serving a life sentence for murder and goes on trial Nov. 26 on charges of first degree murder in the deaths of State Highway Patrolman Lory Price and his wife; Sheriff Coleman of Williamson County; two former State's Attorneys of that county; Deputy sheriffs and former Herrin policeman.

The Herrin indictments followed a batch earlier in the day following an investigation into conditions in Alexander county, in the extreme southern tip of Illinois. Sheriff John Roche, three of his deputies, two former deputies and eight others were named in conspiracy true bills in that investigation.

Princess Marie, sister of former King Constantine of Greece who died in exile, was cut by flying glass while walking in Paris.

Former Premier Ramsay MacDonald and Sir Arthur Steel-Maitland, Minister of Labor, had narrow escapes when trains on which they were riding in England ran into fallen trees.

School Girl Slain
New Castle, Pa., Nov. 17.—(AP)—The body of Emma Alley, 16-year-old school girl, with the head crushed and partly submerged in a small stream was found today by game hunters at Albion Mill, near here. The girl left her home last night when an automobile siren was sounded outside, according to her mother.

The body lay on the bank of a creek with the head under water. The ground bore marks of a struggle.

Runaway Girl Caught at Steward Friday
Helen Brown, 17, of Taylorville, Ill., appeared on the streets of Steward yesterday afternoon begging food and telling weird tales of having tramped about the country for the past two weeks, sleeping in barns and haystacks and begging food from back porches in an attempt to find a home. Deputy Sheriff P. L. Lazier was notified and questioned the girl who told him this she had left the Geneva training school for girls two weeks ago.

When questioned she told the deputy that she feared to return to her home at Taylorville for fear of being sent back to the training school. Deputy Lazier communicated with Mrs. Lucy M. Ball, supervising officer of the school, and an officer was sent to Steward last evening to take the girl back. She had left the school some time early yesterday morning, it was learned, begging rides to Rochelle and then south to Steward, where she was detained.

Meridian Highway is Closed Till Dec. 15
O. F. Goecke of the Dixon district highways offices has announced that route 70 from Rochelle to Mendota will not be opened until Dec. 15th. Many motorists in the east end of the county have made inquiry as to the status of the new Meridian highway and have received this information.

Mr. Goecke announced that several stretches of cement, 50 feet or more, had not been completed and numerous culverts are under construction, the work being hastened as rapidly as the weather will permit. Motorists are advised to use route 2 from Dixon south when feasible as the detours in the vicinity of Compton are almost impassable.

CARROLLS DENIED MOTION TO QUASH THE INDICTMENT

Defense Seeking to Delay Trial of Murder Allegations

Tuscola, Ill., Nov. 17.—(AP)—Judge D. H. Wamsley in Douglas county circuit court today denied the defense motion to quash the grand jury indictments charging murder voted last week against Emil Carroll, professional baseball player and farmer, and his brother, William, Jr., Atwood farmer.

The Carrolls are accused of slaying Walter McAlister, farm hand employed by Emil Carroll, in order to collect on insurance policies on McAlister's life naming Emil Carroll or his wife as beneficiaries.

The defense motion to quash was based on an allegation that the indictment was not specific, but Judge Wamsley ruled that in Illinois an indictment is sufficient which states the nature of the offense so it may be easily understood by the jury.

Robert Cotton, State's Attorney, moved that the case be set for trial at the present term of court but Joel T. Davis, defense attorney, said he was not ready. Arguments on a trial date will be heard next Saturday. If the case is not set for trial at this term of court it will go over to the March term.

EVIDENCE GIVEN AT ELMER HESS' INQUEST VARIED

Consequently DeKalb Co. Coroner Continued Probe One Week

DeKalb, Nov. 17.—Conflicting testimony and the fact that additional witnesses are desired caused the coroner's jury investigating into the death of Elmer Hess of Van Patten to continue the inquest until next Thursday afternoon. The continuance was decided upon after conflicting testimony had been introduced Thursday when the inquest was opened by Coroner R. P. Culver. Mr. Hess came to his death Wednesday evening, Nov. 7th, from injuries received on Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 6th, in an automobile accident about 12 miles east of this city on the Lincoln Highway.

But one witness of the accident was on the stand Thursday. He was Morris Jensen, of Elburn, driver of the Hudson tow truck that collided with the Hess Ford. His testimony differed with that given by Henry Lenke of DeKalb, who said that his son helped take Mr. Hess from the wreckage. Mr. Lenke was first on the witness stand, being the second witness called.

Mr. Jensen stated that he had been in Maple Park during the morning and was en route to Elburn at the time of the mishap. Jensen said that he first saw the approaching Ford, driven by Mr. Hess, when he went to drive around a car, also going east. He started to slow down when he saw another car, parallel with Mr. Hess' car, also approaching from the east. The car that Jensen says he tried to pass also slowed down. This, Jensen stated, made it impossible for him to get back behind the car he had tried to pass.

Went Into Ditch.
Jensen then took to the ditch on the north side of highway, making it necessary for him to cross the path of the car being driven by Mr. Hess. Jensen denied that his truck struck the Hess automobile, stating that the Hess car struck his truck. He also said that he got out of his truck as quickly as possible and tried to pick up Mr. Hess, who was on the ground near his own Ford. This part of Jensen's testimony conflicted with that given by Mr. Lenke of this city, who stated that his son helped pick Mr. Hess out from under the Elburn wrecker. It was because of this conflict that the coroner's jury decided to continue the case another week in the hope that additional witnesses may be found to clear up the situation.

Much Cross-Examining.
Before the testimony was given by the witnesses called Thursday Charles Reinhardt of Chicago introduced himself as attorney for Mr. Jensen. He cross-examined Mr. Jensen at the inquest and during the cross-examination the driver of the wrecker stated that two women who were at the scene of the mishap said that he shouldn't pay any attention to Mr. Hess as "he was under the weather."

When asked what they meant Jensen said that he thought they meant that Mr. Hess had been drinking. The introduction of these remarks drew a protest from Attorney Jacob Cantlin of Rock Falls, who was representing the Hess family. Upon direct examination by Coroner Culver, Jensen had to admit that he couldn't smell liquor on Mr. Hess' breath. Dr. R. A. Wright and L. D. Thorp of Aurora, who brought Mr. Hess to the Glidden hospital, both testified that they couldn't smell liquor on the breath of Mr. Hess.

Doctor Is Witness.
Dr. R. A. Wright, who was called when Mr. Hess was taken to the Glidden hospital, was the first witness. He stated that he thought Mr. Hess' death was caused by internal injuries received in the accident.

Mr. Lenke did not witness the accident but was one of the first persons to reach the scene, he stated. When he arrived Mr. Hess was pinned under the Elburn wrecker, stating that his son helped remove Mr. Hess from under the wrecker. Mr. Jensen stated that Mr. Hess was not under the wrecker and that he was on the ground nearby between the two cars, which were both on the north side of the pavement. Mr. Lenke had previously testified that the wrecker and the new Ford were so close together that a man could hardly get between them.

TODAY'S MARKET REPORTS

Grain Notes

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 17.—(AP)—Two seats on the Chicago Board of Trade were sold late yesterday, one by Frederick L. Hannah, Ottumwa, Iowa for $28,500 and the other by Harry F. Shepherdson, Minneapolis, for $29,000, the latter being the same as the top on Thursday.

Wheat trade is marking time. There is an absorption of the offerings on all weak spots and sufficient selling on the bulges to keep the market from advancing rapidly. The majority of traders would like to have a good advance but lack freedom to take the buying side with ease. Inasmuch as every bulge meets selling from Minneapolis, Duluth and Winnipeg, and there is insufficient buying to overcome this influence, prices are held within a moderate range.

Corn is a weather market and prices on May were around the highest of the season. Every bulge of late has brought out liberal selling by commission houses who are presumably taking profits; also by selling by local traders for both accounts, while there is a fair amount of new buying coming in on every weak spot it has been insufficient to hold gains until yesterday, and the close was around the best prices.

Bartlett Frasier's Liverpool cable said "wheat market decidedly firmer with a good demand. Millers are buying Canadian wheat. There is less Argentine wheat offering."

St. Louis corn buyers are taking No. 4 and No. 5 grades, which they are drying and selling for export, 50 cars being sold on Thursday. There were export bids in the Chicago market for corn, 1c out of line. Elevator men here in Chicago say that contract grades of corn can be made out of No. 3 and No. 4 and No. 5 with very little drying.

The effect of changing operations from December to May wheat is seen in the statement of open interest at the close on Thursday of 63,506,000 bushels as compared with 71,838,000 bushels a week ago.

A report from James E. Bennett's Illinois traveling representative said rains would keep huskers out of the field the balance of the week and it looks as though receipts of corn would fall off.

The modern miller says practically all sections on the winter wheat belt have had rains and the situation as regards soil conditions is generally favorable.

Weekly Grain

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN
Associated Press Market Editor
Chicago, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Facing an immediate corn supply of hardly 3,000,000 bushels at commercial centers, the corn market is hugging close to the season's high price level. Intensifying the effects of present scarcity of the readily available stock of corn are decidedly adverse weather conditions throughout the corn belt tending to keep shipments at a minimum. An opposite influence, however, is an estimate current here today that Illinois and Iowa alone, the largest commercial shippers of corn, have a crop this season aggregating 212,000,000 bu more than last year.

Net results for the time being are 1 1/2c to 1 3/4c a bushel advance shown by the corn future delivery market this morning compared with a week ago. Simultaneously, wheat values were 1/4c to 1 1/2c up with oats 3/4c to 1c gain, and provisions varying from 7c decline to a rise of 22c.

Supplementing the estimate of Illinois and Iowa's big corn surplus are figures indicating that six of the chief corn producing states will not merely produce but will ship this season the huge total of 417,000,000 bu of corn. These states are Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, South Dakota, Nebraska and Kansas. It is largely dependent upon how soon the corn is shipped from the farms of these states that wheat to be marketed at prices hereafter of corn future deliveries. In this connection, corn trade experts here say several weeks of favorable weather are yet required to permit farmers to finish husking.

Meanwhile, the time remaining in which to build up stocks of corn in Chicago for delivery on December contracts is daily becoming shorter, advices from wide territory indicate that husking returns are not nearly as favorable as have generally been looked for, and shippers who have corn sold to go to Europe are reported lowering more and more nervous. Leading Chicago market authorities assert also that with Argentina not shipping as much corn as last year, United States will apparently have to supply Europe to a greater extent, although increased use of low-grade wheat for feed abroad is something of an offset.

Wheat trade leaders point out that the calendar period for price advances in the wheat market is close at hand, but the same leaders question also whether the usual upward trend will develop, although wheat visible supplies in the United States appear to have reached the peak. Domestic mill stocks of wheat it is stated, however, are probably the largest ever known, and wheat exports hinge to an unusual degree upon whether the United States can manage to get ahead of the southern hemisphere, which is expected to be shipping freely inside of two months. In the oats market, an outstanding feature is that three months after harvest the oats movement from farms continues meager.

Domestic consumer use of provisions appear to be on a heavy scale, and liberal curtailment of supplies on hand has again taken place.

DREADED MEALS WITH STOMACH SO DISORDERED

Tried Remedy After Remedy, But Growing Worse Instead of Better; Gly-Cas Magical.

When this amazing new vegetable compound, Gly-Cas, was first introduced in Dixon at Campbell's White Cross Pharmacy, it was predicted that surprising cases of relief would be accomplished by this preparation right here in this city as had been done in every city and town in which this marvelous remedy had previously been introduced. Now residents of Dixon and all over this section know from actual experience or from words of their own neighbors how truly remarkable is the efficacy of Gly-Cas in stomach, liver, bowel, nerve troubles, neuritis, rheumatism. "For over a year I had been trying one medicine after another for stomach and bowel troubles, but it is an actual fact that instead of improving, I seemed to grow worse."

Mr. Bernard Woolridge, 320 S. Hennepin Ave., Dixon said just recently, "I got to suffering so much from my stomach that I dreaded to see meal time come." He continued, "Everything I ate caused bloating and belching and there was an almost continual burning misery in my stomach. I grew weak and nervous and often I would think I simply couldn't go anymore. Many nights sleep was out of the question for me and then, in the mornings I felt tired and worn out instead of rested, as I should have been."

"As I kept hearing and seeing so much praise for Gly-Cas in Dixon I began to realize that there must be something to it all and so I started taking Gly-Cas myself. I am now just another of the many people in this city who are praising Gly-Cas for this medicine has surely done me a world of good. After a month's use of Gly-Cas I have regained my appetite and truthfully, I eat any food I want without the least distress. My nervousness has disappeared and I sleep fine now and my constipation ills are a thing of the past."

"Where my stomach and bowels were once a misery to me, I am a well person now, and without a doubt, Gly-Cas is the best medicine for these troubles that can be had. It is simply a wonder preparation."

Gly-Cas sold in Dixon at the Campbell White Cross Pharmacy, Sold Franklin Grove, O. S. Ives; Polo, C. R. Clothier; Ashton, G. R. Charters; Amboy, Aschenbrenner Drug; Compton, W. H. Hills; Rochelle, Barker & Sullivan and by leading druggists in all surrounding towns.—Adv.

ERMINE OR REAL LACE COMBINED WITH VELVET

Faris—(AP)—Velvet and ermine are frequently paired in the full fashions.

The dressmakers put them together in dresses and coats for afternoon and evening, and one designer even shows a house coat of quilted velvet collared with ermine. The velvet, naturally, is always black.

Another combination of the fall dress collection is velvet and real lace. Usually the lace is used for soft ruffles around the neck and at the cuffs. Some houses show lace ruffles on printed as well as plain velvet dresses.

The WOMAN'S DAY by ALLENE JAMES

As we have said before, young John Coolidge probably thinks it's no soft snap, this being First Young Man of the Land what with all this to-do about his girl, his job, his automobile driving, and so on.

But what young John gets is a mere figment compared with what a First Girl of the Land would draw. Just ask Mrs. Nicholas Longworth about that. She could tell a tale or so about the way her every move was watched and recorded. Still, Alice seemed to enjoy it, and even young John doesn't seem so terribly annoyed by it all, or he has enough of his charming mother's tact to cover his displeasure.

It's rather human to like much attention, whether one admits it or not.

Seventeen-year-old Eleanor Smith of New York skinned in her place under the Queensboro, Williamsburg, Manhattan and Brooklyn bridges the other day. One can imagine that she had to duck a little. Then, too, Miss Smith recently flew as high as she demonstrated with the bridges that she could fly low, establishing a world altitude record for women.

Just by way of saying that the world seems to offer a number of pleasant pastimes to our flappers beside the eternally cited ones of rouging, petting, auto riding, sock rolling, smoking and dancing.

Girl Scout Week Nov. 18 to Nov. 24

November 18 to 24 are the dates set aside for Girl Scout week. Many plans have been made for this week. Special programs are being arranged for the various Troop meetings. Be sure that each girl has a program to follow out individually.

Good to church if possible. Spend some time in reading something worth while. Invite some friends in for the afternoon or evening and plan the refreshments yourself.

Wednesday—
Music Day. Learn a Girl Scout song. Arrange for your family to have good music in the evening.

Thursday—
Put a little note of remembrance at your father's place at the table. Show him that you appreciate what he does for you.

JOURNALIST SEES RUSSIA ABANDONING REVOLUTION

New York —(AP)—Russia, in the view of an American woman journalist, is a mighty land in flux, gradually becoming more conservative.

In "The New Russia," Dorothy Thompson (Mrs. Sinclair Lewis) expresses the belief that leaders entrusted with restoring diplomatic and economic relations with the rest of the world are losing interest in "world revolution" and have learned from their experiment in China that such adventures are too expensive for the "impoverished socialist state."

The book is the result of Miss Thompson's travels in Russia as a newspaper correspondent.

Hot Fruit Drinks For Winter Nights

BY SISTER MARY
NEA Service Writer

Every hostess wants to serve something in the evening after a session of bridge, but she often is puzzled as to just what to choose. Some sort of a drink and sandwiches, she decides, but what to drink? Jane shuns coffee, Mary dislikes cocoa, and tea is out of the question.

However there are some delicious fruit beverages that can be served hot or cold. Sandwiches, crisp salted crackers and not too sweet cookies are delightful to serve with one of these drinks.

The guest who is reducing or gaining will welcome and enjoy a fruity drink of health.

Just at this time of year, cider is sweet and delicious and will be popular chilled in glasses or hot in mugs.

Hot mulled cider is a drink that was a general favorite with our great-grandfathers. It would be just the thing to serve with turkey sandwiches on Thanksgiving evening.

Hot Mulled Cider
Two quarts sweet cider, 1½ cups brown sugar, 1 tablespoon broken stick cinnamon, 1 teaspoon whole cloves, 1 teaspoon whole allspice, 1-3 teaspoon salt.

The spices in a cheese cloth bag. Add sugar and salt to cider and spices. Bring slowly to the boiling point. Do not let boil, but simmer ten minutes. Serve in mugs.

Hot Grape Juice Punch
Six cups grape juice, 2 cups water, 3 lemons, 4 oranges, ½ cup sugar, a few grains salt.

Squeeze juice from lemons and oranges. Cut rind in thin strips and simmer with sugar and water for ten minutes. Add grape juice, lemon juice and orange juice, and reheat but do not let boil. Strain and serve.

An especially attractive cold drink for this season is cranberry nectar.

Cranberry Nectar

One quart cranberries, 6 cups water, 2½ cups granulated sugar, 4 oranges, 2 lemons, 1 banana, crushed ice.

Wash and pick over berries. Cook with water for 20 minutes. Strain and bring slowly to the boiling point. Sift in sugar and cook about five minutes longer. Cool and add orange and lemon juice. Chill and serve with crushed ice and slices of banana.

Guard From Drafts.

Let children have as much fresh air as possible, night and day. Guard them from draught at night (I used to line the high sides of the children's beds with cotton quilting in winter) and place beds so that wall draughts don't play about their heads. But open the windows.

Tiny babies should have the air warmed a little. But in a few months, with plenty of bed clothes, they can breathe it as it is. Children with thin hair should wear comfortable little caps on very cold nights. Floor screens are very useful in bedrooms to keep off drafts.

Daytime, when children are outdoors, they should be dressed lightly but warmly, and their shoes, the always important thing, should be heavy enough to keep out dampness.

As for socks, they are splendid. But on very cold days put on stockings, unless they wear leggings.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS— SILK STITCHING

When stitching with silk, fit a small piece of felt on the spindle under the spool to keep the silk from unwinding too rapidly, tightening or breaking.

Diamonds are trumps, and South has the lead. North and South must win four of the five tricks, against a perfect defense.

Lay out the cards on a table, as shown in the diagram, and study the situation. See if you can find the method of play which will net North and South four tricks. The solution is printed below on this page.

THE SOLUTION

For a five-card problem this is exceptionally intricate. A peculiar series of unblocking plays is required to reach the solution.

South leads the ace of clubs. West discards a heart, and North discards the ace of spades. South next leads the queen of clubs. West discards another heart and North the seven of spades. South now leads the eight of spades, which West trumps with the queen and North overtrumps with the ace. North leads the seven of trumps. East wins the trick with the nine and South discards his heart. East is now forced to lead a spade to South's good queen.

This problem offers one or two interesting variations. If West trumps the opening club lead with the queen North overtrumps. North then leads a trump, which East wins with the nine. South discarding his heart. But East is now forced to lead either a club or a spade, either of which gives North and South the remaining tricks.

It is also interesting to note that if West at any time trumps a club with his five, North and South will win all of the five tricks. And many players may wonder why North discards the ace instead of the seven of spades, provided West does not trump on the first trick. This is necessary in case West should trump the second lead of clubs. If the seven instead of the ace were discarded, North, after East would find a spade being led to him from East. Since South would be void of re-entry, North would be forced to win the trick and then lead his losing heart.

POINTERS FOR PARENTS

I have just read an article in which the writer calls to our attention the fact that women are less susceptible to disease germs than they have been since the stone age.

The answer is, of course, fewer clothes, thus more air and sunlight filter through to the body.

The author tells of experimental health camps for babies in Europe in which the fresh air cure is carried to such extremes that these mites of children, many of them puny and weakened by disease, practically live out of doors all the time, both summer and winter.

The most remarkable thing is that these tots wear nothing but a loin cloth.

But Not Here.

Now I am not recommending that mothers try any such experiment. To begin with, our 57 varieties of climate, quick changes and dangerous extremes, would make any such thing well nigh impossible. But we all might benefit by the astonishing experiment in that it has proved its point.

Fresh air and sunshine is a cure-all.

What we can do to that is sensible and practical is to stop housing ourselves up. Our children, too. How much better we are since we exploded the theory about night air being bad. And one doctor exclaimed impatiently when a patient said he could not take his daily walk on account of the dampness, "Any air is better than house air."

Again I would hesitate to recommend such treatment for people or children in general. It is only too true that if one were to go out in cold, damp air when one was in a certain unhealthy condition, it would bring illness.

Guard From Drafts.

Let children have as much fresh air as possible, night and day. Guard them from draught at night (I used to line the high sides of the children's beds with cotton quilting in winter) and place beds so that wall draughts don't play about their heads. But open the windows.

Tiny babies should have the air warmed a little. But in a few months, with plenty of bed clothes, they can breathe it as it is. Children with thin hair should wear comfortable little caps on very cold nights. Floor screens are very useful in bedrooms to keep off drafts.

Daytime, when children are outdoors, they should be dressed lightly but warmly, and their shoes, the always important thing, should be heavy enough to keep out dampness.

As for socks, they are splendid. But on very cold days put on stockings, unless they wear leggings.

UNCOOKED PRUNES

Wash prunes and cover with hot water. Let soak for 24 hours and then chill. Lift out of the water and serve, without cooking or sweetening.

MOTH PROOF

In packing blankets away, clean thoroughly pack with moth balls and newspapers that leave no cracks for moths to enter. If done right this is just as good as moth-proof bags.

DAILY WASH

If you rinse your silk hosiery and lingerie out each night during the summer months, you will prolong its life as perspiration rots silk.

SNAP FASTENERS

To adjust snap fasteners, sew the ball snap on first, rub with chalk and mark on the opposite side just where the under part should go.

SHOULDER STRAPS

To prevent shoulder straps from slipping, sew one inch bits of silk with a snap on each end onto the inside shoulder seams of your frocks. Snap around all shoulder straps.

SAVORY PUDDINGS

To change bread or rice pudding, add some broken macaroons or some chocolate, preserved ginger, with cocoanut, instead of raisins.

FRESH LETTUCE

Lettuce is crispier if washed separated and wrapped in a lettuce bag of cheesecloth or a brown paper sack. Sprinkle thoroughly and put on ice.

LIFE SAVERS

For very hot days, prepare a casserole dish of some creamed food early in the morning, put on ice and all you need do for supper is bake it.

HOSIERY RUNS

Sometimes runs in silk stockings can be successfully hidden by stitching the entire length on the wrong side on the sewing machine.

COLORED UNDIES

If you put a tiny bit of coloring in the rinse water when undies are brand new, they will never fade out completely and always look fresher than if you wait until they are nondescript.

NEWS of the CHURCHES

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

In spite of the weather a good audience faced the Singing Evangelists, Rev. and Mrs. Kindig, at the close of the first week of the meetings. The Children's Meetings have been well attended throughout, the interest of the children deepening as the days go by. Yesterday Mr. Kindig showed the contents of the heart as they are before Jesus comes and then what comes in with Him. Last night the marimba duet was very much enjoyed and Mr. Kindig's solo, "Gather the Pearls While You May."

The pastor spoke on a "Wrestling Match" basing his talk on Genesis 32, the Story of the Angel wrestling with Jacob. He said:

"Jacob was a man who was good in streaks. His name which means 'Supplanter' was not a good one to start out life with and it was true of his character. He was a strange mixture of good and evil. He was no saint and yet there was a strain of gold in him. He was a great seeker, a man of settled tenacity of purpose. He had cheated his brother Esau out of his birthright many years before, and now, afraid to meet him, he divides his forces and waits alone at Jacob Ford to abide the issue. The crisis is near—what a fool he has been. Will God help him now? He is at last face to face with himself and for the first time

Ed. Howe, the well-loved Kansas editor, remarks in his autobiography that he believes he has a "natural religion." "If I pass a church," he writes, "and faintly hear the organ and choir, I have heard a sermon that does me good."

Probably a good many of us are in Mr. Howe's class. Living in a world in which the requirements of bread and butter compel us to devote most of our time to the job of making a living, we fall out of touch with spiritual values. Yet we aren't entirely out of tune, for all that; dimly-heard music, caught out of the air, can be to us, as to Mr. Howe, "a sermon that does us good."

These chance eavesdroppings are important. It would be a mistake to assume that a man can worship only when he has donned his best suit of clothes, composed his mind and seated himself in a pew. Life continually throws out accidental little snatches of organ music to us; a hurried moment on a busy street in broad daylight can rift the clouds and give us a vision of the world's glory and majesty.

When you walk down a city sidewalk, impatient of the crowds that jostle you, you are in reality moving through a thousand separate human dramas, each one of which would move you to your heart if you could see it clearly. You encounter, for instance, a shabbily-dressed woman with a chubby little boy, pausing at the window of a toyshop. The boy's face shines with the eagerness of expectant youth; the mother's tells of a life-time of self-denial and penny-pinching. The boy points a grubby finger at some cheap gay top and looks up questioningly; the mother hesitates, then smiles—and they go in. You lose them. But the memory of the smile will stay with you; a beacon-light of love and endurance and pity.

People are infinitely nobler and better than we usually think. There is a divinity in human nature that silences forever our sneers and doubts whenever we get a glimpse of it. For the most part it goes unnoticed. We go about our daily routine, through a mass of strange faces, without ever suspecting that the unknown people we meet are other than they seem. Then, unexpectedly, some little thing happens; we hear a stray word, catch a sudden smile—and then we know.

The organ and the choir! You can hear them everywhere, if you will listen. They are contained in the daily, ordinary words and movements of plain human being, fighting unknown fights and meeting unknown tragedies; yet they come from a farther place. They prove that whatever else may be—however frustrated, unhappy or tragic—it is never mean or ignoble. There are glory and splendor in and around it.

AUTO THEFT: PETTY LARCENY.

Just how common are automobiles, anyway? Well, in New York the other day a man stole one. He was arrested and brought to court—on a charge of petty larceny! The car, a 1921 model, was not worth more than $25; consequently its theft could not be counted as a felony.

This is rather startling, when you stop to think about it. An automobile's chief function is to take people from one place to another; and the car the New Yorker stole would do that, for all its wheezing and rattling. It undoubtedly can travel several thousand miles yet. Thirty years ago that car, in its present condition, would have cost thousands of dollars. Today it is small change—ready for the junk heap, despite the fact that it can still render good service.

Better than anything else, that little incident illustrates the amazing cheapness and commonness of the automobile.

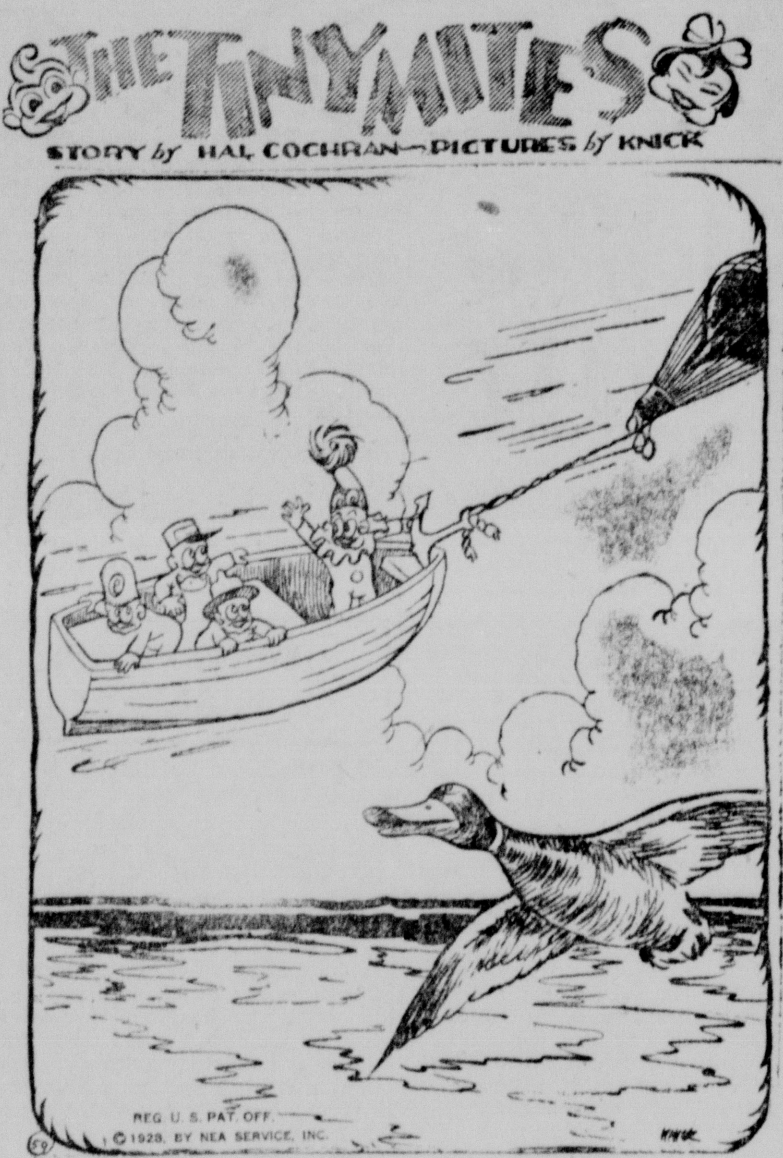

A PIG AND ALL THAT.

The Pennsylvania Bureau of Motor Vehicles reports an odd quirk in the laws of that state governing motorists' liability for property damage.

If a man's car runs over, say, a $1000 chow dog, the driver needn't bother much about the accident. If, however, he happens to run over a $50 pig, he must report the accident to the bureau and stand ready to furnish compensation to the owner.

That isn't quite as peculiar as it at first appears. A dog, by rights, is either a cherished pet or nothing. He has no dollars and cents utilitarian value. A pig, on the other hand, is a bit of property that is raised solely for profit. Killing a pet dog may injure the owner severely, but it isn't the sort of an injury that can be assuaged with cash. A pig, however, is a creature that, being unlovable, can be paid for and forgotten.

A physician says hundreds of women are having their little toes removed that they may wear smaller shoes. Seems like carrying things to extremes.

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

Up, up, the little rowboat rose, and but no sound floated through the sky. "I guess there's no one in it," little Carpy sighed. "I wish that we could climb us there, but it's not safe. We wouldn't dare. The way our rowboats hanging there's no comfort in this ride."

Just then the rowboat jerked a bit. "Look out there! Don't let go of it," cried Scouty. "If we tumble down we'll splash into the sea. I see the whitecaps very clear, and they're a long, long ways from here. Imagine dropping down that far. How terrible 't would be."

The rowboat promptly jerked once more and then the bunch heard Copy roar. "What luck! It isn't hanging now. It's riding very straight." Thus through the air the small boat sped. They all found seats and Scouty said, "Why this is just like riding on the sea. I think it's great."

ST. PATRICK AND FATHER MATTHEW
St. Patrick was a famous missionary who went to Ireland about fourteen hundred years ago, and taught the people Christianity. It is impossible to say how much evil has been prevented, and how much good has been done by Father Matthew. The following lines, about St. Patrick and Father Matthew, may be amusing to our readers, and make them remember the good they have done.

St. Patrick, 'tis said, cleared Ireland's bogs
Of serpents and reptiles—toads, tadpoles and frogs.
But a saint of our day shows a far greater wonder,
For good Father Matthew's got alcohol under.
St. Patrick did well—and we gave him a glass
Of pure cold water—so round let it pass.
We drink to his name—'tis a bright one in story,
And wreathed with green shamrock, shines ever in glory;
For if we will read the old legend aright,
The reptiles he vanquished so bravely in fight.
Were Druidical monsters—dark errors and crimes,
Which he drove, with the cross, from Erin's fair climes;
But alas! when the saint had long slept in the grave,
A serpent, more monstrous, crept out from the wave;
He seemed a good genius—was joyous and frisky,
And so he was welcomed, and they christened him Whiskey.
A favorite he grew, and at wedding or fair—
By everyone cherished—sure Whiskey was there.
And all the world fancied, when he took a part,
Thought he was praying or dancing, it came from the heart.
But at last it was seen that a demon of night
Had passed himself off as an angel of light;
For, in moments of glee, like a serpent he stole
Unseen to the bosom, and coiled in the soul.
Nor was this all—for Whiskey's a fellow
That lives in each liquor, which makes one mellow—
And though he may dwell in a hogs-head himself,

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

His spirit is found in a julep—the elf
'Twas thus by his arts that he spread o'er the Isle,
And millions on millions did Whiskey beguile.
In vain are the efforts the evils to paint,
Where Whiskey was worshipped as more than a saint;
There was madness and death—there was sorrow and guile—
Yet—the source of them all—he was worshipped the while.
But murder will out—and whiskey grew bold,
Was detected—convicted of all we have told.
St. Patrick was dead, but he left an example—
And so Father Matthew adopted the sample;
He attacked the old monster, and though he roared out,
And flourished his tail, and turned round about—
Mat laid it on well, and his blows, like a sledge,
Fell heavy and thick, for he wielded The Pledge;
And the last news its this—'tis surely no wonder—
Father Matthew's atop, and Whiskey is under.

equipment of the post will be carried on until that time, Major-General Charles P. Summerall, Chief of Staff of the Army, told a St. Louis air board committee which conferred with him here yesterday.
The air board appealed to Major General Summerall to give his influence toward retaining the field and its activities, following reports that its air activities might be taken over by the Navy.
The Major General told the committee that the Army planned to complete its helium purification plant and a new barracks at the Army post on its present appropriations, but he frankly told the committee he did not know what the fate of field would be after July 1 when a new appropriation was in order. He explained that the field's present appropriation was cut by the Senate military committee and not by the Army.
The committee is expected to decide at the next session whether lighter-than-air activities will be continued at the field.

Are You a Wise Man?

A wise man does not live as though his income couldn't stop—he makes provision for sickness, lack of work, accidents or his declining years. Are you wise?

The improvidence of a large number of people is not due so much to a desire to spend every cent they earn, as to their failure to understand the value of small economies. Make a start. Lay aside a certain sum each week or month; you will learn the lesson and the habit will make you wealthy and happy.

They did not see anyone about, and heard no report of a gun. They reported the matter to the sheriff's office at Oregon and an investigation was made, but no one was found hunting in that vicinity. Arthur and his son left in their new Chrysler auto for Wales, a distance of 45 miles for sheep. They had traveled all but about four miles of the distance when they plunged into a wooden culvert which had been burned out when the dry grass was burned on each side of the road. The hot embers beneath the culvert set fire to the tires, the gas tank exploded and the entire car was consumed. The occupants narrowly escaped with their lives. The Roop family are former residents of this place and have many friends here who will regret to learn of their accident, but will rejoice with them that they were not seriously hurt.

When Rev. and Mrs. Selmeister and son were returning to their home in Chicago, after having attended the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Aid Society at Lighthouse, in crossing a railroad track at Geneva their car was hit by a passenger train which backed into them, throwing them several feet and completely wrecking their new Durant car which was being used for the first time on this trip. How they escaped without injuries is almost a miracle.

Trouble Follows Toral Trial

Here are Jose de Leon Toral and Mother Maria Concepcion, indicated by the arrows, surrounded by a ring of steel as they left the court room in Mexico City after being sentenced for the assassination of President-Elect Alvaro Obregon. The death sentence to Toral and 20 years imprisonment to Mother Concepcion aroused Mexican Catholics, many of whom look upon the pair as heroes or martyrs. Newspapers took sides and the strife threatened to reach serious proportions.

"You're First!"

Charity, it's said, should begin at home. So when President Coolidge, official head of the American Red Cross, opened the twelfth nation-wide drive of the organization, he turned to the nation's First Lady. Here you see Mrs. Coolidge receiving a Red Cross button from the President while Judge Barton Payne, left, national chairman, doubtless reflects that the great humanitarian campaign is getting an excellent start.

News From Grid Camps of Large Schools of West

BY PAUL R. MICKELSON

Associated Press Sports Writer
Chicago, Nov. 17.—(AP)—First place in the Big Ten football championship race and membership in the nation's select circle of undefeated teams were at stake at Iowa City today where Iowa and Wisconsin match speed and brawn before 35,000 spectators.

The battle, which may decide the championship scramble—barring upsets in next week's final game—was the outstanding attraction of the Western Conference schedule, which included games between Chicago and Illinois and Northwestern and Indiana.

Coach Burt Ingwersen's ponderous Iowa machine was the expert's choice to win. A steady drizzle yesterday made the playing field soggy, and that was regarded as an advantage for Iowa, which has an almost invincible line attack.

The Iowa line, averaging close to 10 pounds more to a man than Wisconsin's and its two line smashers, Mayes McLain and Willis Glasgow, carried the Hawkeye hopes; while Wisconsin depended on its line's aggressiveness, the throwing arms of Bill Lusby and Sammy Behr and the uncanny ability of "Bo" Cusinsier, its midjet quarterback, to spear passes. Illinois 1927 champions invaded Chicago bent on giving Coach Amos Alonzo Stagg's men their fifth straight conference licking. Chicago was in good physical shape but wasn't conceded much a chance to turn back the Illinois.

At Bloomington Northwestern and Indiana were to do battle. Indiana was badly crippled. The field was soggy and heavy.

Minnesota had the once mighty Haskell Indians for opponents in a non-conference clash, which was regarded as a workout for the Gophers.

Wabash was at Purdue and the Ballmakers are fearing an aerial attack. Harry Kipke, one of the best ball carriers ever at the University of Michigan, led his Michigan State College eleven to Ann Arbor to meet the Wolverines.

Coach Jack Wilce planned to do considerable experimenting today when his Ohio State eleven tackles Muskingum at Columbus.

CARNEGIE AT SOUTH BEND
South Bend, Ind., Nov. 17.—(AP)—Carnegie Tech's future rating as a contender for the national football championship depended on a victory over the University of Notre Dame today.

Undefeated in six games, they brought with them a reputation of being stronger than Army, more powerful than the New York University eleven, and just now at the peak of their game.

Notre Dame, too, appeared ready to go. Early season defeats eliminated Notre Dame from championship consideration.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 17.—(AP)—A rain-soaked field and the Pittsburgh Panthers were hazards that faced the University of Nebraska today in their quest for national football honors.

Pittsburgh came west with full fighting strength to break the Nebraska record of no defeats or ties for the year. A spongy, slippery gridiron was the battleground.

Pittsburgh defeated the Nebraskans 21-13 last year, while Nebraska scored a 10-0 victory in 1921.

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 17.—(AP)—Undisputed leadership of the Western Conference, and more than likely the 1928 championship itself, was the stake for which the universities of Iowa and Wisconsin fought today. The field was muddy, and the prediction was for rain at game time.

Each team had its best material available, Wisconsin's aerial and speed artists—Cusinsier, Behr, Lusby and Rebolts—being matched by the batteries of Iowa—McLain, the Cherokee charger; Arml and Parroh, with Glasgow injecting an element of speed.

Excessive moisture would render unsafe the Badger passing attack, while the weighty home boys figured to lose little traction in their smashing endeavors.

Chicago, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Coach Amos Alonzo Stagg's Chicago Maroons make their last stand today when they attempt to halt an ancient and powerful gridiron enemy, Illinois.

Defeated in four straight Big Ten games, Chicago wasn't even conceded a chance against Coach Bob Zuppke's dashing Illini, who have had two weeks to prepare for the game.

It was the final game of Chicago's schedule, however, and Stagg was ready to use every trick in his repertoire to score an upset and answer critics, who have been lambasting the team for its "lack of fight."

Princeton, N. J., November 17.—(AP)—Thousands of visitors were here today for the 52nd Yale-Princeton football game.

A town that normally houses fewer than 10,000 people had to handle five times that number. The town firemen and a detail of state troopers were needed to help Princeton's police force in controlling the rush of motor traffic.

Princeton, with a somewhat better record for the season, resigned favorite in the pre-game predictions.

Both teams had injuries to detect from their chances.

DETAILS HOOVER'S JOURNEY NOT ALL COMPLETED TODAY

President-Elect Awaits a Conference With Ambassador Fletcher

BY JAMES L. WEST
(Associated Press Staff Writer)
Stanford University, Cal., Nov. 17.—(AP)—Herbert Hoover will be well on his way toward South America for his good will tour before the details of his itinerary for the trip will be announced.

One day before the President-elect was to leave his home at Stanford University to journey to San Pedro to board the battleship Maryland for the voyage down the Pacific coast, there were still many gaps in the schedule for the trip, and doubt existed as to whether some of the stops that have been tentatively announced would be made. A formal announcement issued at the Hoover home as final arrangements were being made for the departure, said that no definite itinerary would be available until after Mr. Hoover has conferred with Henry P. Fletcher, American Ambassador to Rome, on board ship.

Mott to Join Party
Ambassador Fletcher, who will be the official representative of the State Department on the trip, is en route to California. Mr. Hoover has enlarged his personal party to include a friend of long standing, John Griffin Mott of Los Angeles. Mr. Mott has spent much time in South America and is familiar with the various countries that the President-elect will visit.

Because of the limited accommodations on the Maryland, Mr. Hoover has been obliged to restrict the size of his party. Including himself and Mrs. Hoover, their son Allan, and Ambassador Fletcher, there will be an even dozen members of his personal party, exclusive of the 26 newspaper correspondents and news and motion picture camera men who will accompany him.

To See Grid Game.
Although Mr. Hoover is embarking upon a special mission, unique in the relations between the Americas, he and all members of his party from the State Department were visited in San Francisco by the consuls of the South American republics.

The President-elect spent much of today in bidding friends goodbye, and clearing away the mass of correspondence that has continued to accumulate in spite of the activities of a battery of typists and stenographers. In the afternoon he planned to see the last football game that the Stanford University team will play in the stadium here this year. The opponent of the team of his alma mater was the University of Washington.

less strenuous work to support his wife and three children.

GLICK GIVEN DECISION
New York, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Joe Gluck, hard punching Williamsburg lightweight, has removed another formidable obstacle from his path toward 135-pound championship. Gluck received the official verdict over Baby Joe Gans, California Negro star, after a rather lifeless ten round battle at Madison Square Garden last night.

The decision was not entirely to the liking of the crowd. Cheers and boos were shouted when the verdict was announced.
